Recruitment, Selection & Retention

Creating a Highly Competent Motivated Workforce

INTRODUCTION

This EuroMaTech training course is aimed at ensuring the successful delivery of Recruitment and Selection projects/campaigns, which can appear to be very resource hungry and time consuming.

International companies have found to their cost that inappropriate Recruitment and Selection decisions can create significant problems for the business and the individual. There is empirical evidence that employing the latest Recruitment and Selection techniques will, without a doubt, significantly increase the likelihood of recruiting the best candidates possible.

The Recruitment, Selection & Retention training course will examine real life case studies and examples of the latest techniques, the use of social media, competencies, psychometric testing and behavioural interviewing along with other supporting methodologies and examine the benefits and pitfalls at each step. The training is also designed to transform your approach and competence in recruitment and selection, or career development and appraisal situations.
